Author to share ghost stories at Governor Mifflin Middle School

Who: Governor Mifflin librarian Kathleen Murray, author Charlie Adams, and Governor Mifflin Middle School students

What: Just in time for Halloween, local author Charlie Adams will share his haunted history of Berks County with students at Governor Mifflin Middle School. Students will be invited to sign up to hear Adams read from his books that feature ghost stories from Berks County and the surrounding region.

Adams has been a speaker at the International Ghost Hunters Alliance and GhostWorld conventions in Gettysburg, PA, and at regional paranormal conferences in New Jersey, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. He has been interviewed on ghostly topics in England, Ireland, Northern Ireland, South Africa, and on several American radio and television stations. He has also appeared on The History Channel's "Haunted America: New York" and "Haunted America: Philadelphia" programs and has served as consultant and on-air "expert" for programs on hauntings and ghosts on The Learning Channel, MTV, and The Travel Channel. His latest television work is a segment at the haunted Eastern State Penitentiary in Philadelphia for The Travel Channel's "Mysterious Journeys" series. Adams has also organized and escorted tours of haunted places in the United States, England, and Scotland.
