Governor Mifflin to welcome Kutztown University students for first "Arts Day"

Who: Chris Allen, Governor Mifflin High School art teacher; Dr. Amy Bloom, assistant professor at Kutztown University; art students from Governor Mifflin High School and Kutztown University

What: Governor Mifflin High School will host "Arts Day" on October 30. Students from Kutztown University, along with Kutztown assistant professor Dr. Amy Bloom, will visit GMHS to share and demonstrate techniques and ideas.

"Not only is this an opportunity for our students to see new techniques, but it gives them a first-hand look at the work that lies ahead in college-level art classes," said Chris Allen, Governor Mifflin High School art teacher. "So much of art lies in communication, collaboration and demonstration, so bringing Kutztown students together with our Governor Mifflin students allow all of the students to hone those key skills as well."

Arts Day is a joint effort between Allen and Bloom, a former Governor Mifflin art teacher. Kutztown students will participate in all art classes throughout the school day.
